

Part 3 Assignment 1 – Spring MVC Core Features

Brett Bloethner

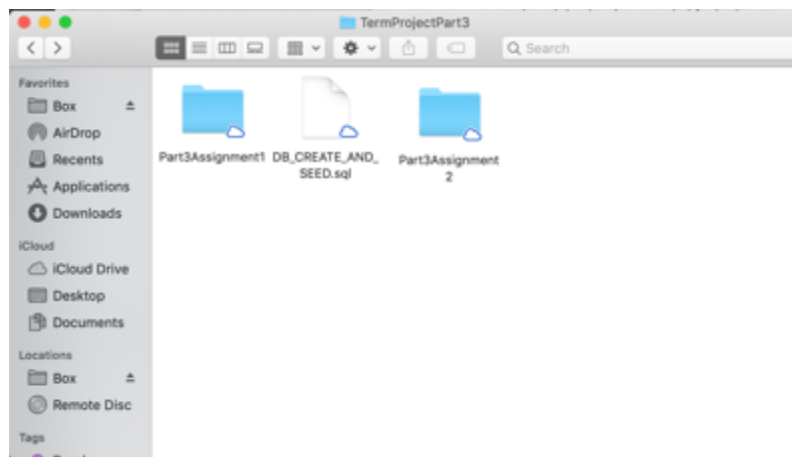

Notes on Term Project Part 3 Assignment 1

- I originally thought the assignment called for 2 i18n languages. So I have both French and Spanish in the web app.
- I added Delete book functionality to hopefully make up for some extra points I could possibly loose elsewhere in the assignment. The delete functionality was implemented with a hidden form method field and a hidden form method field web filter.
- I opted to use Java configurations instead of XML configurations. I followed the text books example when implementing the Java configurations.

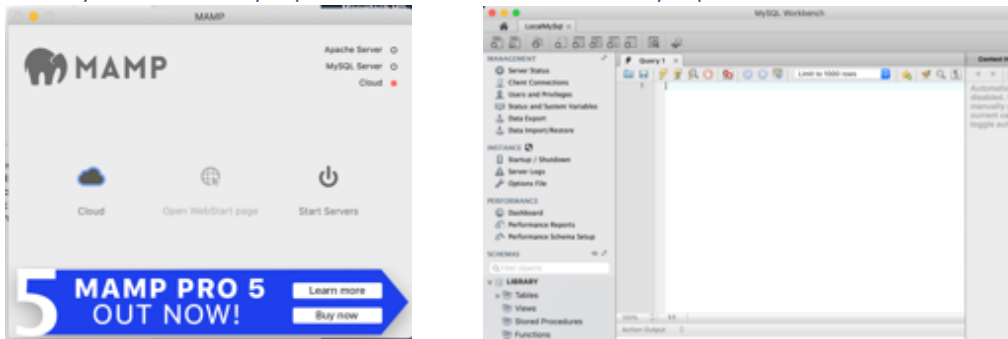

STARTING UP TERM PROJECT PART 3 ASSIGNMENT 1

1. Download the project zip file and unzip the files to a familiar location.

There should be 3 items in the unzipped folder. Two project folders for Term Project Part 3, one for Assignment 1 and one for Assignment 2. These both will run independently of each other. The DB_CREATE_AND_SEED.sql file can be used to create and seed the database needed for both assignments. For this part of the term project, it's not necessary to recreate the database between grading each of the two assignments.

2. Start your local MySQL server and console or MySQL console tool

In the context of this documentation. I'm using MAMP to run my local MySQL server and MySQL Workbench to execute queries on that local server.

3. Create a database with the correct username and password

Create a local database using the database parameters specified by the application configuration and pictured below...

// configure database connection
@Bean(destroyMethod = "close") public DataSource dataSource() { BasicDataSource dataSource = new BasicDataSource();
    dataSource.setDriverClassName("com.mysql.jdbc.Driver");
    dataSource.setUrl("jdbc:mysql://localhost:8889/LIBRARY");
    dataSource.setUsername("e57");
    dataSource.setPassword("password");
    dataSource.setTestOnBorrow(true);
    dataSource.setTestOnReturn(true);
    dataSource.setTestWhileIdle(true);
    dataSource.setTimeBetweenEvictionRunsMillis(1800000);
    dataSource.setNumTestsPerEvictionRun(3);
    dataSource.setMinEvictableIdleTimeMillis(1800000);
    return dataSource;

The database should be accessible at "localhost:8889/LIBRARY"

The database username should be "e57"

The database password should be "password"

4. Load the test schema and data into the database

Copy the sql query from the DB_CREATE_AND_SEED.sql file located at the root of the submitted zip file and execute that against your MySQL server in MySQL Workbench.

This will create the Book table and it will also insert 13 books into the book table. See the query for book table data below...

The screenshot shows the 'Result Grid' tab in MySQL Workbench. The query 'SELECT * FROM BOOK;' has been executed, and the results are displayed in a table with 13 rows. The columns are ID, CATEGORY, ISBN, TITLE, PUBLISHER, and PRICE. The data is as follows:

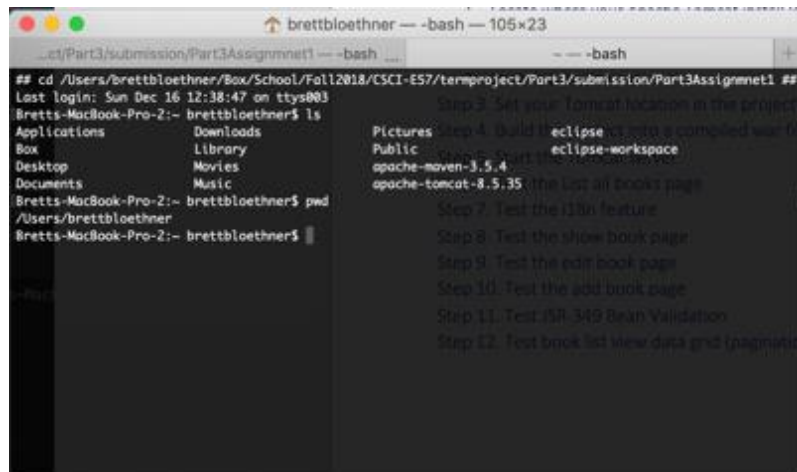

ID	CATEGORY	ISBN	TITLE	PUBLISHER	PRICE
1	Military Fiction	154204586X	Daughters of the Night Sky	Lake Union Publishing	7.48
2	Historical	1503951812	The Tuscan Child	Lake Union Publishing	6.99

13	Military Fiction	B07196BC8V	The Silver Music Box	AmazonCrossing	1.99

Your database should now be ready to go.

5. Locate where your Apache Tomcat install location is Locate where your Apache Tomcat installation location is, you'll need this to start Tomcat and to tell the app where to copy its .war file after it compiled. Notice on my machine Tomcat is located in my user folder at

/Users/brettleoethner/apache-tomcat-8.5.35

6. Start Apache Tomcat

Navigate into the bin folder inside your Apache Tomcat folder and run the startup.sh script to start Tomcat. The console response should look similar to the image below. You might have to run startup.sh with sudo, in my case the command is sudo ./startup.sh

Notice the prompt saying “Tomcat Started”

7. Test that Apache Tomcat is running

Tomcat should now be running with its default landing page at localhost:8080. To confirm Tomcat is running and serving pages properly, use google chrome to visit

localhost:8080

If you see a webpage similar to the one above, then you've successfully started Apache Tomcat.

8. Set the war file build location in the project pom.xml file

Tomcat serves webapp .war files that are in its “webapps” folder located in {your_tomcat_folder_path}/webapps. In order to get this app to copy its compiled .war file to this location, the pom.xml file needs to be reconfigured. You can access the pom.xml file for Term Project Part 3 Assignment 1 in the Part3Assignment1 folder.

Bretts-MacBook-Pro-2:TermProjectPart3 brettbloethner$ ls
DB_CREATE_AND_SEED.sql  Part3Assignment1  Part3Assignment2  src  to build the project war file in the conf
Bretts-MacBook-Pro-2:TermProjectPart3 brettbloethner$ cd Part3Assignment1
Bretts-MacBook-Pro-2:Part3Assignment1 brettbloethner$ ls
README.md  spring-mvc-webapp-1.iml  -spring-mvc-webapp-1.docx
pom.xml    src
spring-mvc-webapp-1.docx  target
Bretts-MacBook-Pro-2:Part3Assignment1 brettbloethner$
```

Open this file in an editor and change the outputDirectory tag to match the location of your Tomcat webapps folder. In this case my Tomcat webapps folder is located at /Users/brettbloethner/apache-tomact-8.5.35/webapps/

229 <dependency>

249 </configuration>
250 </plugin>
251 </plugins>
252 </build>
253 </project>

9. Build Term Project Part 3 Assignment 1

Navigate to the project directory for Term Project Part 3 Assignment 1 (folder named Part3Assignment1 in the unzipped folder). The directory should look something like below.

Bretts-MacBook-Pro-2:TermProjectPart3 brettbloethner$ ls
DB_CREATE_AND_SEED.sql  Part3Assignment1  Part3Assignment2
Bretts-MacBook-Pro-2:TermProjectPart3 brettbloethner$ cd Part3Assignment1
Bretts-MacBook-Pro-2:Part3Assignment1 brettbloethner$ ls
README.md               spring-mvc-webapp-1.iml  -spring-mvc-webapp-1.docx
pom.xml                 src                      target
spring-mvc-webapp-1.docx
Bretts-MacBook-Pro-2:Part3Assignment1 brettbloethner$

Build the project into a .war file and have it copied to the Tomcat web app directory by running the following maven task and your output should look similar to the below image.

mvn compile war:war

10. View the App in Chrome

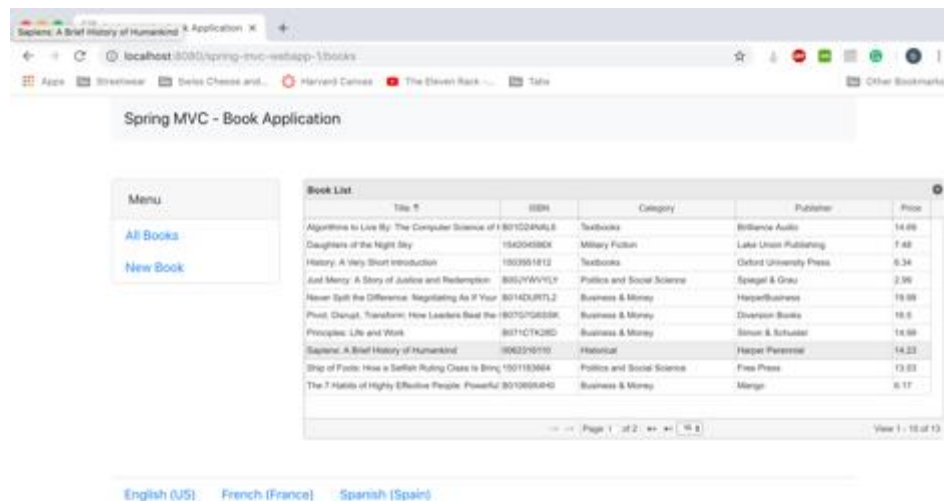

Test that Tomcat is successfully serving the application by visiting the app in google chrome. Visit the address localhost:8080/spring-mvc-webapp-1/ in google chrome and you should come across the home page for the assignment 1 web app. It should list all of the books paginated and look similar to this.

TESTING TERM PROEJCT PART 3 ASSIGNMENT 1

1. Testing the list all books page

Visit the list all books page at localhost:8080/spring-mvc-webapp-1/ or localhost:8080/spring-mvc-webapp-1/books

Notice how all 13 books are viewable on the home page. Use the data grid pagination feature to view the last 3 books since the data grid is set to only view 10 books in each page.

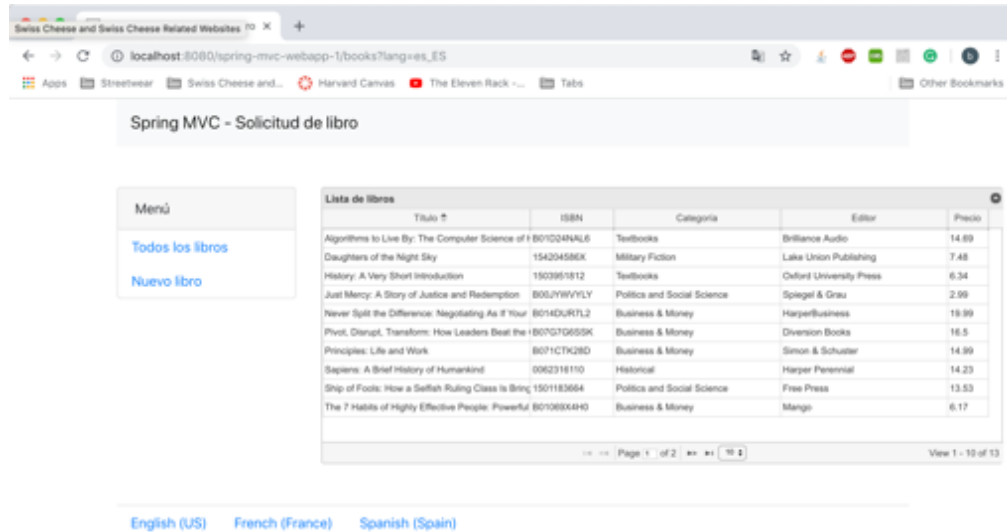

2. Test the i18n feature

Visit the list all books page at localhost:8080/spring-mvc-webapp-1/ or localhost:8080/spring-mvc-webapp-1/books

Click either “Spanish” or “French” in the web app footer. Notice how all of the text changes to that language and the url param “lang” is now set in order to activate the i18n messaging. Spanish and French are shown below.

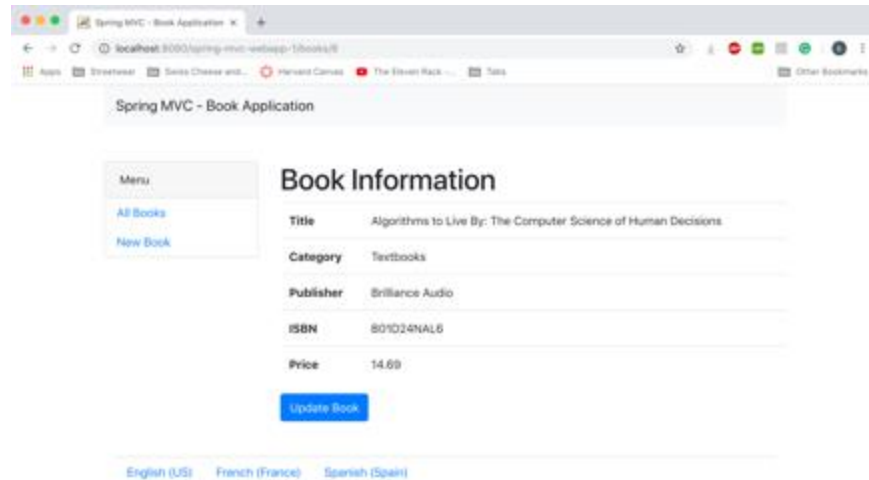

3. Test the show book page

Visit the list all books page at localhost:8080/spring-mvc-webapp-1/ or localhost:8080/spring-mvc-webapp-1/books Click on any book row in the data grid, this will bring you to the show book page for that book. Notice how the show book page shows all the details for the book and provides an Update Book button link.

4. Test the edit book page

Visit the list all books page at localhost:8080/spring-mvc-webapp-1/ or localhost:8080/spring-mvc-webapp-1/books Click on any book row in the data grid, this will bring you to the show book page for that book.

Click on the Update Book button link. This will bring you to a form where you can change the books data and save it. Change some of the books information and press Save. Notice how I changed the Publisher from “Brilliance Audio” to “Random House”

After saving, you should see the books new show page with the updated data. Along with a message showing that you successfully saved changes to this book.

5. Test the add book page

Visit the list all books page at localhost:8080/spring-mvc-webapp-1/ or localhost:8080/spring-mvc-webapp-1/books . Click on the link in the left hand sidebar that says New Book. This will bring you to a new book page with a new book form and it should look like the image below.

Fill in the form with information for a new book.

The screenshot shows a web browser window with the address bar displaying 'localhost:8080/spring-mvc-webapp-1/books?form'. The page title is 'Spring MVC - Book Application'. On the left, there is a 'Menu' sidebar with links for 'All Books' and 'New Book'. The main content area is titled 'New Book' and contains a form with the following fields: 'Title*' (filled with 'New Book'), 'ISBN*' (filled with '0000000001'), 'Category' (filled with 'New Arrivals'), 'Publisher' (filled with 'Anonymous'), and 'Price' (filled with '24.12'). At the bottom of the form are two buttons: 'Save' and 'Reset'. Below the form, there are language links: 'English (US)', 'French (France)', and 'Spanish (Spain)'.

Click Save. Notice you're redirected to that new books show page which shows all of the new books data. Also, if you visit the book listing page, you'll see the new book in the data grid. An SQL query will also show you the new book has been added to the database.

The screenshot shows the 'Book Information' page in the Spring MVC - Book Application. The browser address bar shows 'localhost:8080/spring-mvc-webapp-1/books/14'. The page title is 'Spring MVC - Book Application'. The 'Menu' sidebar on the left remains the same. The main content area is titled 'Book Information' and features a blue success message: 'Book saved successfully'. Below this, the book's details are displayed in a table-like format:

Title	New Book
Category	New Arrivals
Publisher	Anonymous
ISBN	0000000001
Price	24.12

At the bottom of the details section is an 'Update Book' button. The language links 'English (US)', 'French (France)', and 'Spanish (Spain)' are at the very bottom of the page.
